Celebrating Health IT Innovators and Incumbents

Last week we celebrated the value of IT in the U.S. healthcare system through National Health IT Week. As part of this national awareness week, TN HIMSS hosted our second annual "Innovators and Incumbents" series on Tuesday, October 9. The event featured a panel discussion around the culture of innovation, design thinking, practical models, and success factors. Panelists included the following health IT experts:

- Dr. Eric Louie, chief medical officer at Healthbox (moderator)
- Mike Biselli, founder of Catalyst HTI
- Tami Wyatt, associate research professor and co-director of the Health Information Technology Simulation Lab at the University of Tennessee
- Ryan Donnelly, strategy and growth officer at Premise Health
- Chris Carmody, senior vice president of IT and infrastructure at UPMC in Pittsburgh
- Vic Gatto, co-founder of Briovation

Each of the panelists shared valuable insight on key trends and topics affecting the healthcare industry. We enjoyed spreading health IT awareness, and were proud to host a session that fostered learning and collaboration during this week. Read more about the event here.

What excites you about the future of HIT? What do you see as the biggest challenges?

The most exciting thing about the future of HIT is that it hasn't been written yet. I am inspired by so many driven individuals in this space who focus not only on bringing value to the marketplace, but also on making a difference in the lives of patients every day (i.e. #pinksocks). The biggest challenge that I see in HIT is the naysayers who are content with the status quo. However, I'm confident in the ability of the people driving change to make an impact that we haven't been able to fathom yet.

What do you see as the value of being a TN HIMSS member?

The value in being a TN HIMSS member is the access to the best of the best in our industry, which happen to be within the borders of our state! We are able to derive excellent content from our member base, which most chapters around the country wish they had the same access to. We are able to network with topnotch professionals and that is worth a multiple of what we pay in annual dues alone.

What was your favorite recent TN HIMSS activity or event?

The 2018 Summit of the Southeast at Health:Further is my favorite recent event. That is our largest event of the year and provides excellent content, many opportunities to network, and start-up stations for a number of entrepreneurs who are working to solve many of the issues in healthcare using technology. Our recent Innovators and Incumbents event also had an all-star panel and provided plenty of lively discussion, which coordinated with National HIT Week.

What is the last book you read?

I am in the middle of Ron Chernow's Grant and Washington: A Life.

What is your favorite place to vacation?

We plan all of our vacations around places that have locations within the National Park Service (we have two awesome Junior Rangers) and minor league baseball teams. We frequently visit New York, Chicago, and New Orleans.

Industry News

London tech company launches Nashville office

London-based Metsi Technologies Inc. opened a Nashville office last month that will serve as its North American headquarters. Rachael Babcock, the former chief innovation officer for the state of Tennessee, has been appointed Metsi's CEO for the Americas. Metsi provides tech services to help businesses integrate and automate their IT systems. Babcock said the company is at the forefront of IT-as-a-service, which allows companies to pay only for the cloud computing services they use. As the former official in charge of designing Tennessee's data centers and cloud operations for state agencies, Babcock said it's exciting to have a company like Metsi in Nashville. Read more.
